

The Hitch-Hiker's Guide To The Galaxy

Douglas Adams

Guys,

What a great radio English series from 1980 (?) broadcast on ABC Radio.

 Don't Panic **

It spread like wild fire in the ELSOC Common Room when Peter Worboys shared his audio recordings from the first time it was aired.

The official DVD from the UK still hides from me in my collection. It is way better than the 'attempted' US version with its graphical enhancements. As you know, English humour seems to be more digestible in Australia than from the United States.

On the next page are few photos of my current audio cassettes that Peter recorded for me and others in the orbiting students. The copies of the nearest books I could find among my 'stuff' are there as well.

After these images, there are YouTube links to the Radio Series with selected comments for you to follow up if you wish. Should you be inspired, a launchable link to Amazon's offering is: <https://amzn.to/2nbyX6N>

The original BBC Radio play is freely available online. It predates the novel adaptations and I highly recommend you listen to it first. Although it is wonderful to have the opportunity to hear the voice of the late Douglas Adams reading his own work.

Douglas Adams - who would have turned 60 on March 11 - immortalised the number 42 in The Hitchhikers Guide to the Galaxy.

More links & stuff in full description below

Forty-two was calculated by Deep Thought!

According to Douglas Adams himself:

The answer to this is very simple. It was a joke. It had to be a number, an ordinary, smallish number, and I chose that one. Binary representations, base thirteen, Tibetan monks are all complete nonsense. I sat at my desk, stared into the garden and thought '42 will do'. I typed it out. End of story. <wikipedia>

In unicode, character #42 (0x00A2) is the * symbol, which is used a wildcard symbol in programming and computer languages

This is the Original Records LP re-recordings of the Primary Phase, rather than the original BBC Radio broadcasts. There are some differences. Notably, Douglas removed the material about the Hagunennon - the super-evolutionary lifeform that originally owned The Black Ship. John Lloyd wrote that part, when Douglas was suffering from writers' block.

In later versions of HHGTG, Douglas patched in Disaster Area instead ensuring he didn't have to share royalties.
Douglas was uncommonly fond of a ninghi or two. The LP versions of these episodes are, for my triganic pu, the best versions of the story. Production is better, performances more nuanced, radiophonic music by the wonderful Paddy Kingsland also better. Original Records upped the ante. By The Secondary Phase, the BBC had caught up. The LPs were hard to get hold of, back in the day. IIRC, the company folded & Douglas had a devil of a time collecting his royalties.

This completes the "Trilogy" as related to Douglas Adams reading his own Hitchhikers series. I believe I have located an out-of-print, unabridged audiobook of "Dirk Gently's Holistic Detective Agency" read by Douglas Adams. It is my hope that this should be the next upload.
